East Hartford High School

East Hartford, Connecticut

Board of Education

No group of men had a higher regard for the meaning of freedom than our Connecticut forefathers who established this state government. They had sacrificed all—friends, farm, fireside—rather than lose the freedom they loved. Wisely they insisted that each community retain its sovereign rights, particularly to control the kind of schooling provided and those who should direct that schooling. The very existence of School Boards, elected by and of the citizens of East Hartford, is a symbol of the freedom we enjoy. Where else but in a democracy might every citizen thus control, through his elected representatives, the education of youth?

Now it is our duty as Board members to see that this love of freedom—America's greatest heritage—is passed on, undimmed to those in our care.

EDGAR BEAUMONT,
Chairman

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Seated: Mrs. Clara M. Moore, secretary; Mr. Edgar Beaumont, chairman; Mrs. Mary Conroy; Mr. James Johnston.

Standing: Mr. Carl W. Trehella; Dr. Edward H. Truex; Mr. Hillis K. Idleman, superintendent; Mr. William A. James; Mr. Lester Turney; Mr. Russell H. Gardner.

Administration

The freedom that we enjoy today is a living symbol of the sacrifice and vision of those that have preceded us.

It is now our duty to guard it, to sustain it, and to make that kind of world in which it will become a reality to all men upon the earth.

HAROLD A. ODELL,
Principal

Something in the heart of every man cries out for freedom. Unfortunately, to some liberty means license—the right to exercise one's own liberty at the expense of others' freedom. The truly great freedom is not from work, or from fear, or from want, but the freedom from ignorance. No shackles bind so tightly as those of superstition and of prejudice. The imprisoned philosopher may know freedom—the unenlightened live in bondage.

The Senior Class

As Americans we are trying to use our treasured possession, Freedom, to the best advantage for the common welfare. Exercising our freedom to vote, we cast our ballots for the people whom we thought most suited for the positions at the head of the Class of 1946. We elected our senior class officers to lead and direct our class activities to the best of their ability. They have proved that the majority was not mistaken, for they have carried out their duties faithfully and well.

In order to lead a group well, the leaders must know what that group wants; and they cannot know this unless there are direct representatives from the masses at their meetings.

This need for popular representation was recognized many years ago at East Hartford High School. In the classes before us, each senior homeroom elected a representative from their group to the executive board. In this way each person of the senior student body is represented in his government.

At executive board meetings our officers and representatives put into effect the doctrines of freedom to assemble and freedom to express one's ideas openly. We can justly say that we have preserved our inherited American treasure—Freedom.

The Junior Class

The Class of 1947 came back to high school this year happy because the war had ended, but serious too, because they know that they are the ones to win the peace. They know that many American citizens, boys from their own class, have fought and died for this freedom. They realize the tremendous and numerous problems they face in keeping and strengthening this peace. They are grateful that they, as future citizens, will have a hand at keeping the American dream.

Now the Class of 1947 are upper classmen—no longer wise fools. They are young men and women—ready, willing, but not quite able to do their part. They must learn through education. Education helps the future citizen in a democracy. The founding and carrying on of the government is taught in such subjects as history and problems of democracy. It is practiced in the class executive board and the Student Council. In fact, good citizenship is taught in every class; for our teachers, our community, our state, and our country are educating the youth of America, for they know the part the youth will play in the future.

The Sophomore Class

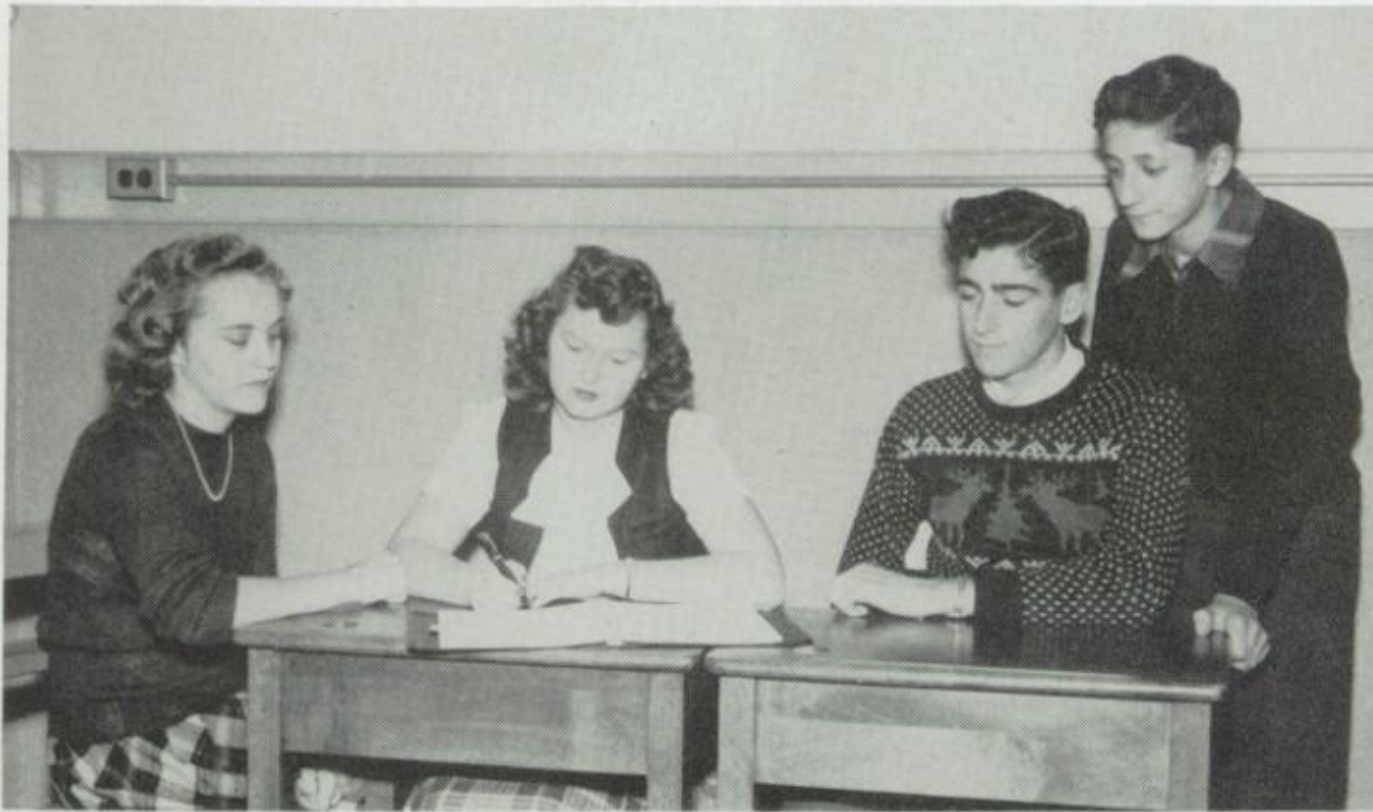

We returned last fall quite eager to take advantage of the opportunities we learned about when we were freshmen. Our class officers were elected and we started work to make our school proud of the class of 1948. Our officers were William Nolan, president; Terry Crowley, vice-president; Mary Lou Richards, secretary; Joseph O'Malley, treasurer; and our advisors were Miss White and Miss McClellan.

The war had taught us more clearly the meaning of freedom and liberty; and as peace had returned, we began to see the realization of that cherished dream. Many opportunities were offered us and we were anxious to make use of them. During the period while the whole world was reconverting, this class began the gradual climb towards a way of life higher in the principles of freedom than that of prewar days.

We started our celebrating of living in a peaceful world by attending the Freshman-Sophomore hop. The dance had a "celestial" motif, with stars and planets decorating the walls. Multi-colored balloons floated high against a ceiling of dark blue.

We, as the theme of the dance suggests, should keep looking to the stars. We are preparing ourselves to take our place in the world as the future citizens of America. To preserve freedom is ever our task.

The Freshman Class

On September 5, 1945, we excitedly entered East Hartford High School with an air of bewilderment. The idea of changing from room to room for our classes was new to us. We were teased considerably as we paced from one end of the building to the other trying to find our lockers and rooms. The upperclassmen were delighted as we nonchalantly barged into the wrong room. However, it wasn't long before we became thoroughly accustomed to our new environment.

We became aware of the freedom we possess, for nearly every activity in school hinged upon it. In our civics classes we studied how to take advantage of this cherished possession effectively in our own community. We further became aware of its presence in our election of the class officers and executive board which led us through the year.

Our first year flew by, but many unforgettable memories of it will remain with us for a long time. Our class was ever mindful of the freedom bought for us so dearly, and we did all in our power to make America's most treasured possession become a living example in East Hartford High School.

Three School Songs

Our praise fills the air,
As we raise our banner high.
The sight of our colors, blue and white
Guides us on, as we watch it fly.
Through life's stormy seas
We can weather any gale;
So, cheer for East Hartford, let it ring
For we pledge our strength to you.

Let us sing the praises of East Hartford High we love so
dear
We will laud her heroes of the field and track
The remembrances of the four years we've spent together
here
Will shine brightly when thoughts turn back.
Wealth cannot measure all we gain from her nor time deny
That these four years are not in vain—
So give a cheer, a rousing cheer, for dear East Hartford
High
And to her will our loyalty remain.

Chorus

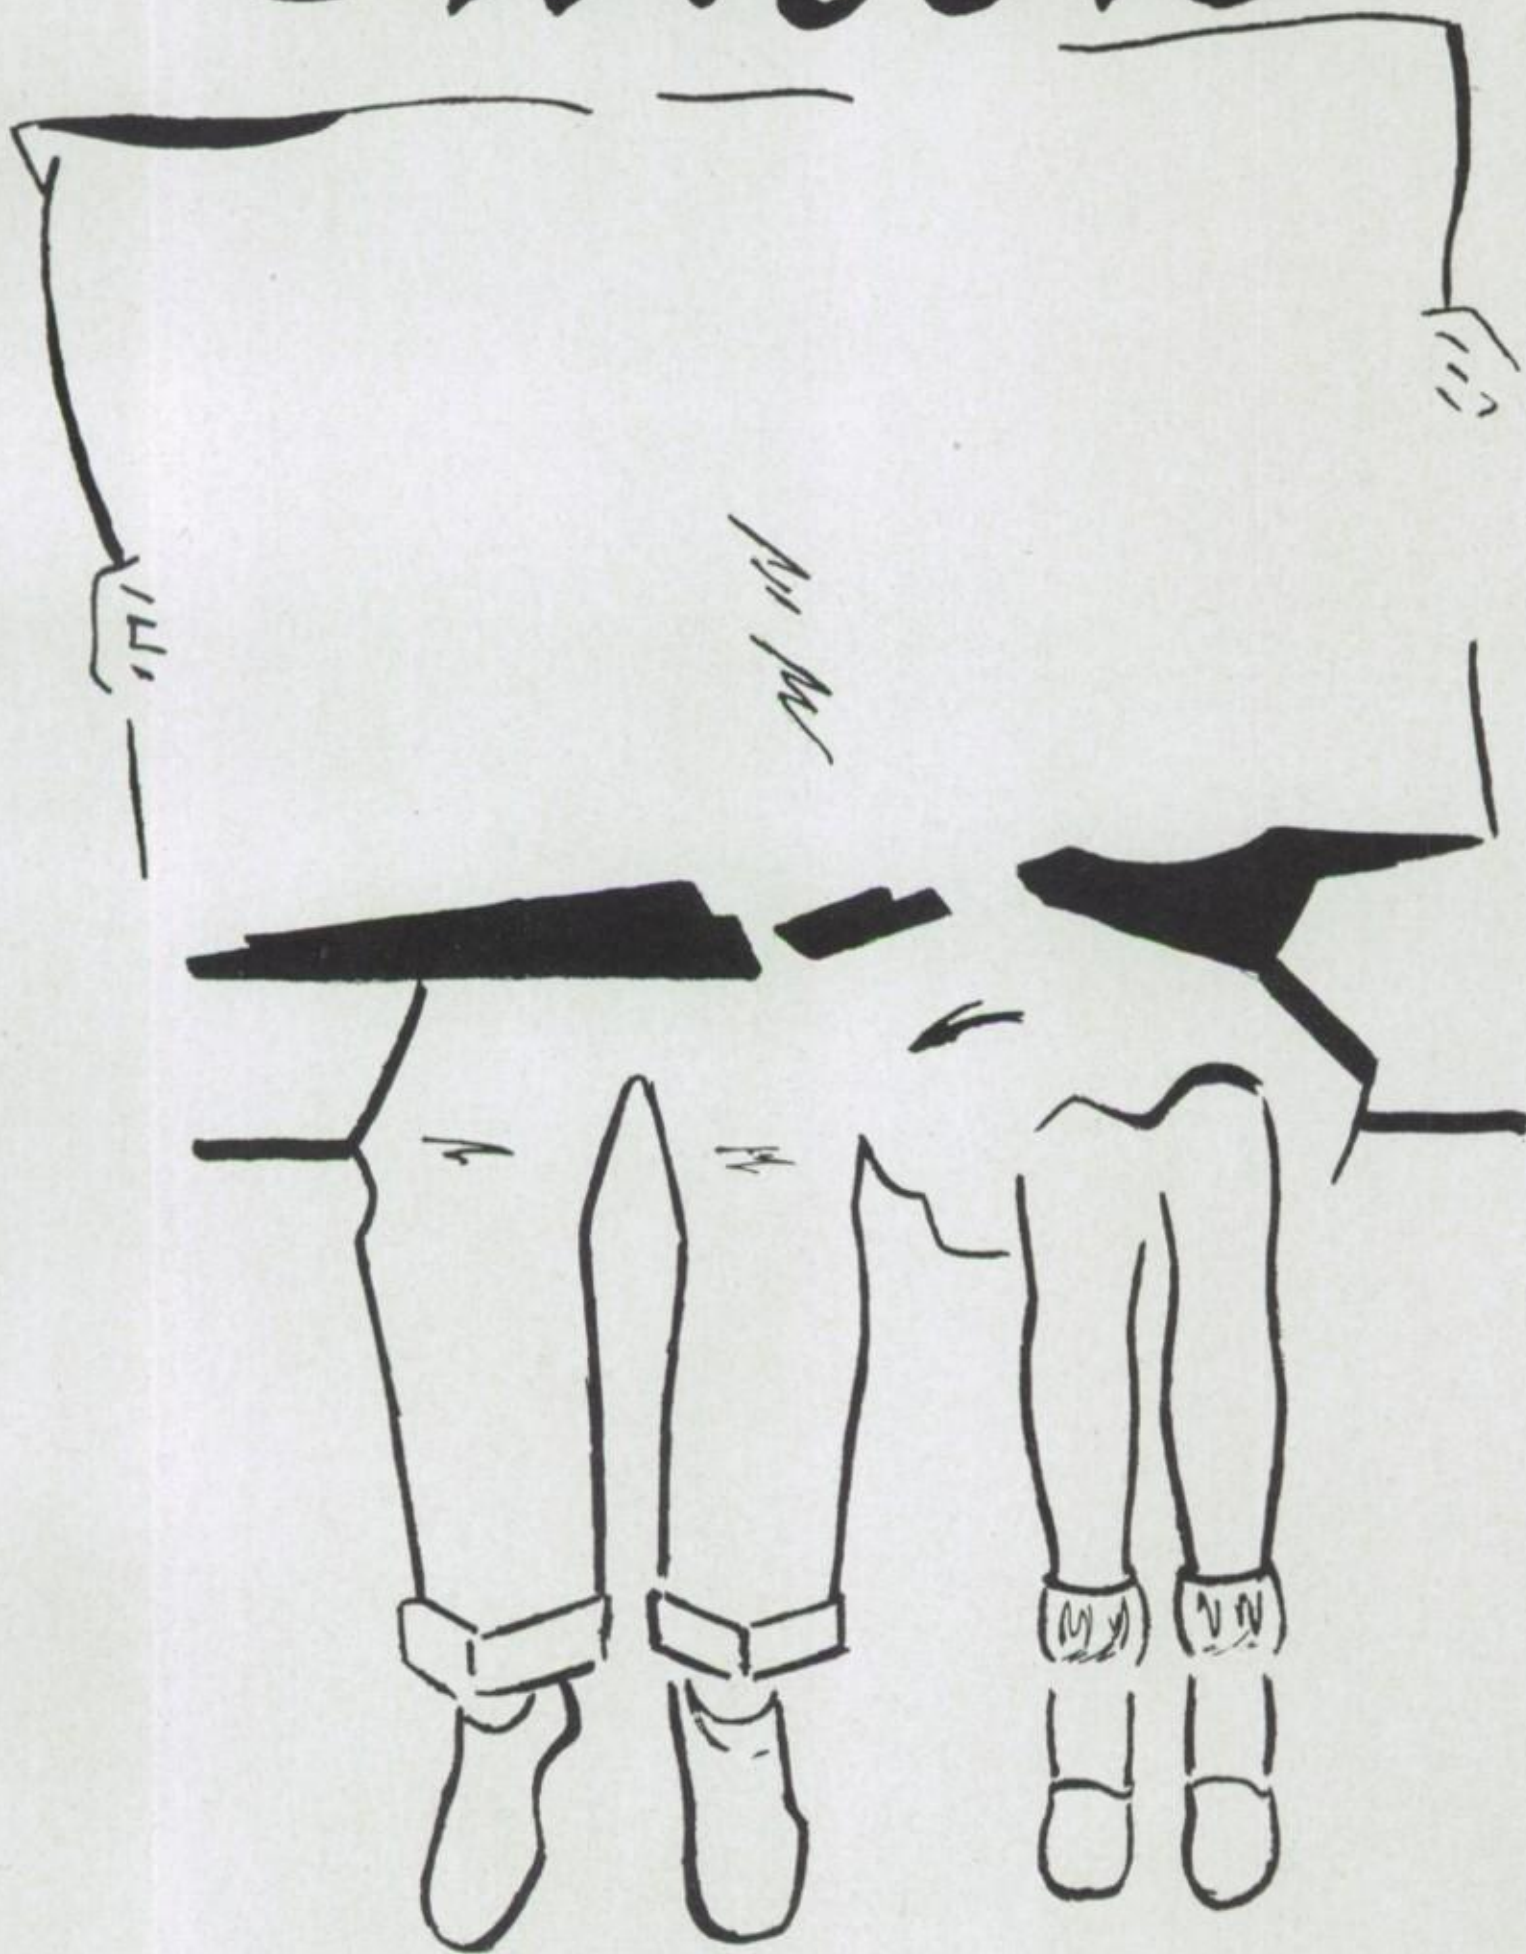

Oh, East Hartford, East Hartford
'Tis a name full of fame as in the days of yore
May it ever prove more glorious
Till the sun shall climb the heavens no more.

March, march on down the field.
Fight for East Hartford
Rip up their tattered lines and circle the end
Give a loud cheer for Johnnie's men
They're out to win the game
Other schools may fight to the end
But we will win.

Classes

English is the subject that helps us to express our own ideas and to understand those of others. These same principles are practiced in our other language classes of French, Spanish and Latin.

In our history classes we learn how our freedom was secured and what we must do to preserve it.

Chemistry laboratory, where safety demands that things be done not so freely as some would like. Still it is a place where much is learned.

Algebra, a subject in which X equals O , may appear strange to many of us; yet each year it is undertaken by those who believe that it will have some place in furthering democracy.

Those queer marks that mean nothing to most of us seem well understood by this shorthand class. These students will prove quite valuable to the world in future years.

Freedom to do as you wish so long as it does not disturb others is one of America's first principles; thus we present our boys' cooking class.

Freedom of the press has long been one of our main democratic ideas. The boys in print shop are helping its continuance.

Machinery seems a complicated work, but these boys know what it's all about. They are the future machinists and mechanics of our post-war world.

One of our oldest arts is sewing. It is freely and happily chosen by those girls who wish to continue the art.

Our freedom must be preserved. Radio, a subject that is rapidly becoming more popular, is one means for doing so.

Office practice, the room of many machines, from whose depths come our daily bulletin and other notices of importance.

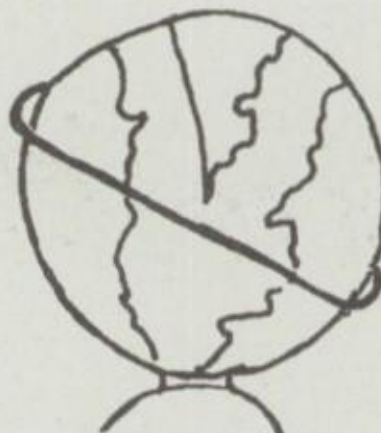

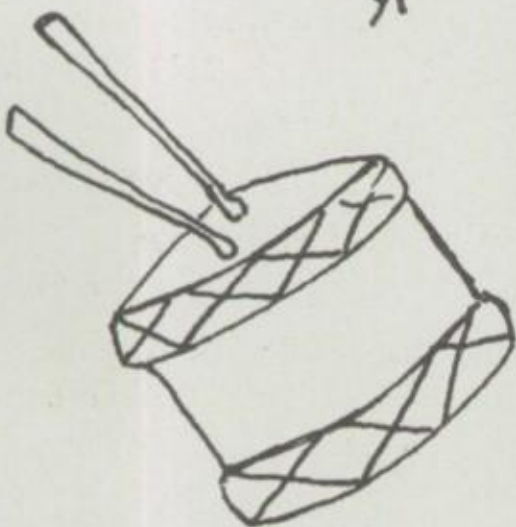

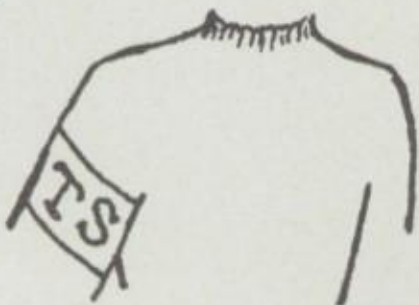

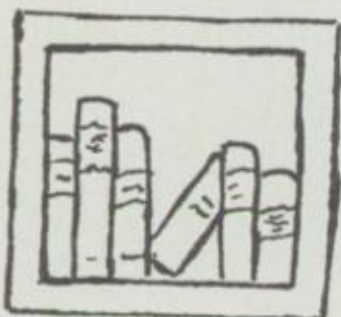

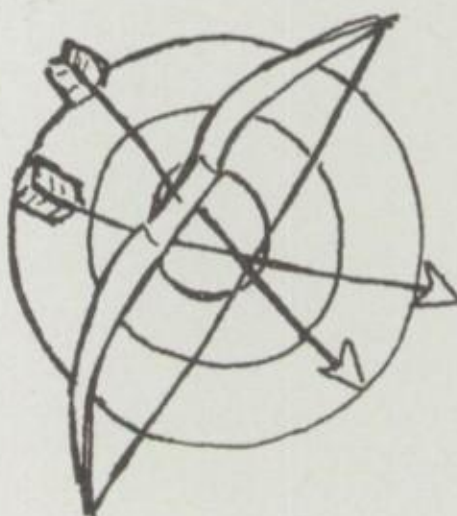

The library is a place of quiet and study. Here students gain self-confidence and become self-reliant by looking up topics and words in the books provided.

In wood shop students use their ability to work with their hands. Many good works have been turned out.

Mechanical drawing is proving to be a very important part of our world. Students are taking this subject to learn an art that will prove valuable in the future.

Student Council

Not unlike our democratic form of national government is this student government. The members are nominated, elected, and hold office as do our representatives. If old laws are not effective, the council remedies the flaws or votes for new ones. School life is governed by this law-making and enforcing body firmly but gently during pleasurable and necessary activities.

National Honor Society

"Leadership, scholarship, service, and character" is the motto most familiar to high school students. At one time or another, students strive for the honor of being elected to this society. They must get above average marks and show a tendency toward leadership. They give their time unselfishly to school functions and justly "belong" after they are elected by critical judges.

Hi-Y

This organization is not very old in our school, but it is an established one throughout the country. The Hi-Y is a Y.M.C.A.-School Club organized to maintain the high Christian ideals of a true democracy.

Assembly Committee

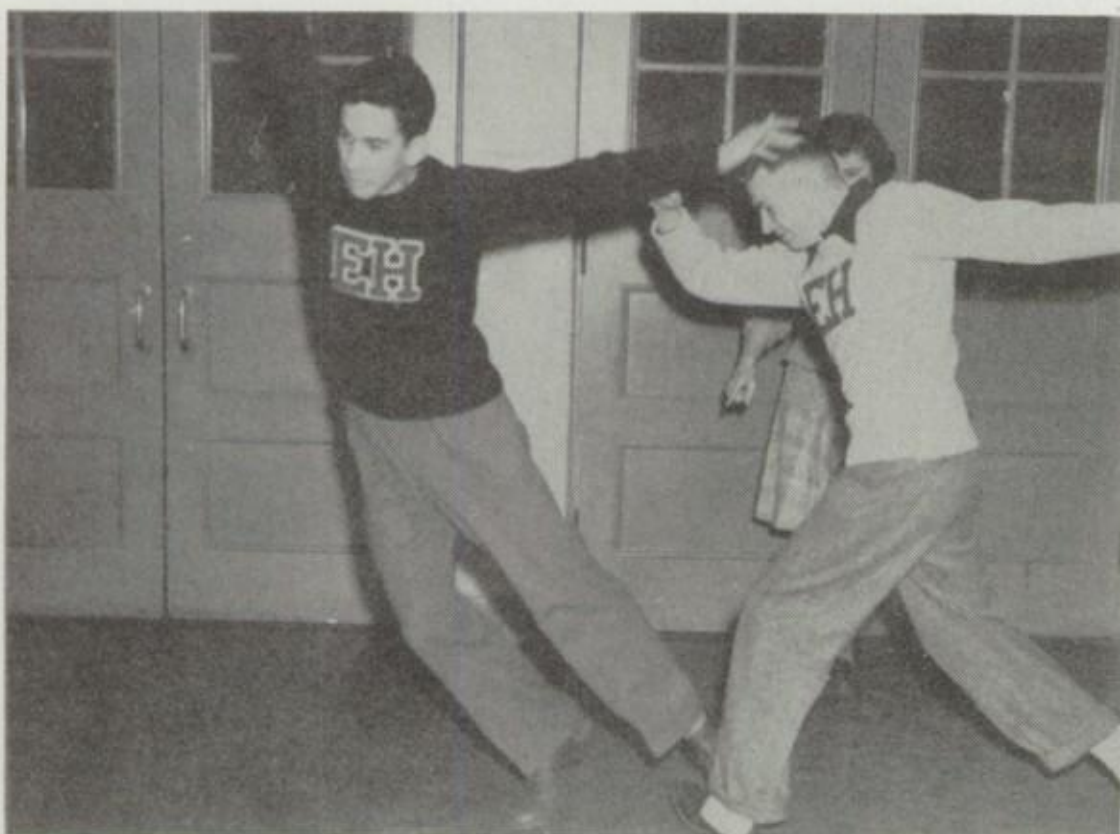

Assemblies are in an indispensable part of our free government. The best and fairest way yet found to meet and discuss problems is through assemblies. The admirable efforts of this committee have afforded us the opportunity to attend gatherings ranging from pep rallies to forums.

Budget Committee

To this small group falls the great task of deciding how much money goes where. Only in a school where democracy is prevalent and acts of freedom are exercised is this responsibility entrusted to students, who will one day have a larger task and be able to handle it because of this background.

Walk straight, talk slowly and distinctly, and have self-confidence. These are some of the many things learned at A.G.E. Being in a large organization like this, the girls learn to use initiative and take orders. They exercise to the fullest all privileges, large and small, which come with our freedom-loving school, state, and country.

As I Like It

One of the most popular clubs in school, this organization provides a variety of well-rounded entertainment ranging from plays to a fashion show and formal. Its six purposes—fun, friendship, knowledge, understanding, leadership, and service—help young Americans on the road to good citizenship.

Boys' Double Quartet

The Quartet is made up of eight boys who show a great interest in music. They sing songs which are rather difficult. They sing for the sheer pleasure of it.

Girls' Ensemble

The Ensemble is composed of a few girls who really enjoy delving deeply into music. They study truly difficult music of the masters.

Girls' Glee Club

The Girls' Glee Club is made up of girls who enjoy singing. They sing for their own pleasure and the pleasure of others.

Band

All of America and the rest of the world turned to music for relaxation and enjoyment during the war. Now that peace has come, music still has an important part to play.

Boys' Glee Club

The Boys' Glee Club is composed of boys who like to relax with music. "Music hath charms . . ." and these boys charm and are charmed by their music.

Pinafore

This operetta was a school project under the direction of Miss Carolyn Gower and Miss Doris Rayner. Through the untiring efforts of many people, the operetta was a great success.

Orchestra

This group of musicians does a great deal for the life of the school. By playing at assemblies and by giving concerts, it does much to entertain.

Science Club

To create is probably everyone's desire and this club offers the freedom to try out different experiments. Be it oxygen or mercury, there is always a formula to follow as in life. The members have a problem, work through a process, and then draw a conclusion. Their experience is invaluable; and although they may not follow the field of science, they will realize that creation is better than destruction.

Nature Club

Winter, autumn, and summer hold as much enjoyment for these nature lovers as only spring holds for some. They enjoy the freedom to go wherever they please, to observe—and are welcome as long as they do not interfere with others' freedom.

All of us, spectators and athletes alike, realize that freedom in sports does not mean that the players in a game can do as they please. We know that the real freedom comes when all the players work together for the good of the whole team. One of the most inspiring things about this year's football team was that spirit of working together which they showed.

Although our team went through its season with but two wins, it showed, on the field, plenty of fighting spirit and hustle, which made up for the lack of weight and the presence of a tough schedule.

The two victories came at the expense of Windham High by the score of 19-6 and Manchester by 13-6. The other teams on our schedule included Weaver, Hartford, West Hartford, Plainville, and Hamden.

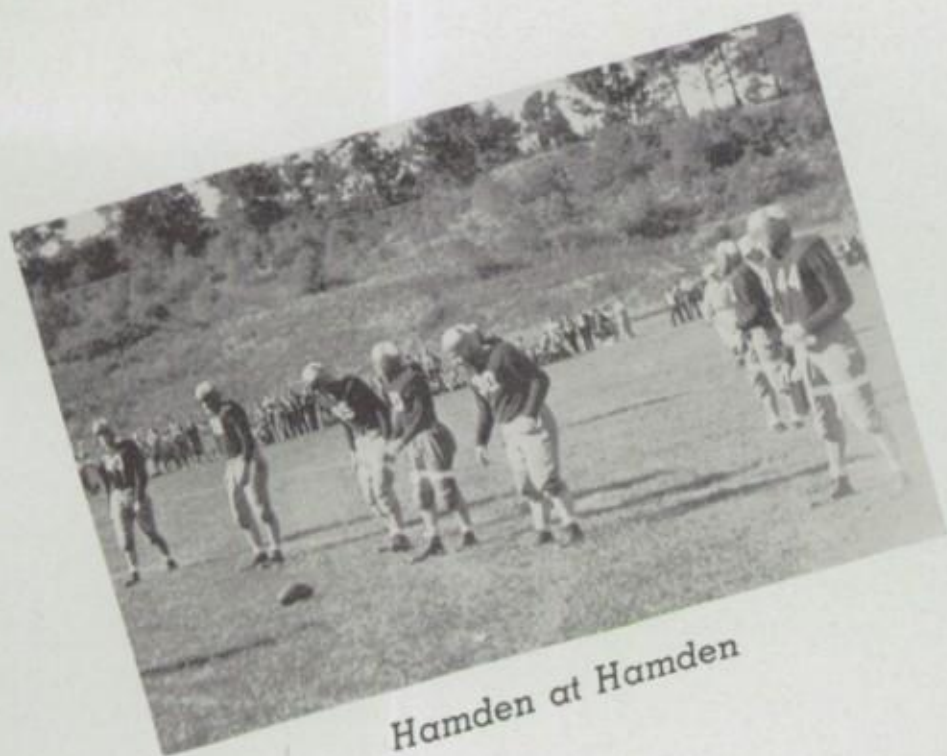

The team was captained by Charlie Sullivan, who was unable to play because of an appendicitis operation.

At the annual football banquet Bill Zinchuk was named "the most improved player of the year." Bill did a brilliant job as end and was one of the district's high scorers.

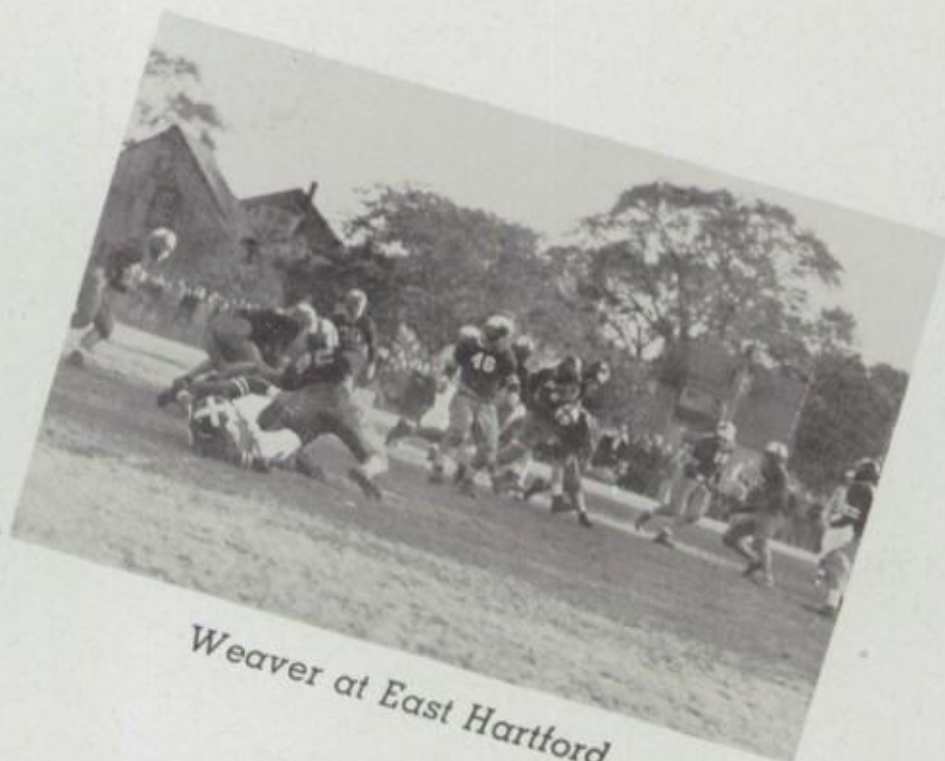

John McGrath announced his resignation as head coach of football. His duties will be taken over by John McGill, former assistant coach.

With a new coach, Howard Goding from Berlin High School, three lettermen from last year's team, and a group of hopefuls, East Hartford started its basketball season with expectations of another fairly successful year.

The lettermen back from last year were Captain Paul Mulligan, Bill Threlfall, and "Lanky" Bill Manierre. These men, along with Charlie Sullivan and Al Fournier, made up the first five.

The highlights of the season were our annual games with Ellsworth, which are always thrilling and attended by scores of spectators. One of the most exciting games of the year was our home game with the Manchester five, in which East Hartford was leading throughout the game, but was nosed out by one point at the final whistle.

Others on the first squad were "Babe" Pinney, Tony Zebzda, Bill Zinchuk, Ralph Kryzak, "Zeke" Zuccardy, and Fred Huppi. These boys did an outstanding job as reserves.
